Busy Session of City Trustees

The city board of trustees met in regular session last Tuesday evening. All the members were present, except Trustee Perry Newberry, who was in Oakland.

A motion was adopted that the city marshal be authorized to employ a man at $6 a day to clean up the city's block, No. 69. It is this lot upon which the Carmel circus is to be held next Saturday.

At the conclusion of a discussion concerning the untidy condition along the curb lines of Ocean avenue, a motion was adopted appropriating $20 to clean up, said work to be supervised by the street superintendent.

Attention was called to the fact that next Monday, August 13, the trustees will meet as a board of equalization.

Over the objection of H. P. Larouette, the contract for improving Dolores street, between Ocean and Seventh avenues, was awarded to S. Ruthven, the only bidder, for $2400. Mr. Larouette did not object to the improvement, but to the cost and type of improvement.

C. Sumner Green, addressing the board on the matter of the location of the Harrison Memorial Library, gave it as his opinion that the building should be located on the city property, Block 69. Mr. Green showed a tentative sketch of the proposed mission style building, which sketch is on display at the Pine Cone office.

The board gave its authority for a survey of the local fire department, equipment and efficiency, by the board of fire underwriters, at no expense to the city.

The $682.50 bill submitted by C. S. Olmstead, on behalf of the Del Monte Properties Company, for the improvement of San Antonio street, was not allowed, pending further information as to who authorized the work to be done.

New Superintendent for Moore Rancho

Henry J. Dunn, who was in charge of the infield at the recent California Rodeo in Salinas, has been chosen superintendent of the ranchos San Carlos and San Francisquito, on the southerly Monterey county coast, south of Carmel. The properties were purchased recently by George Gordon Moore, New York millionaire sportsman. Dunn was formerly superintendent of the Milpitas, one of the largest cattle ranches in Monterey county.

To Produce Play on Eclipse Day

Garnet Holme arrived at Coronado recently. Holme has just completed "The Fete of the Sun," to be presented at Coronado September 10, the day of the total eclipse of the sun. Actors of fame are expected to play the leading roles in the cast; the other parts are to be given to those possessing unusual talent residing in or about Coronado and San Diego.

Dr. Humphrey J. Stewart, well known organist, has composed the music for the occasion and nearly 100 talented musicians will play under his direction.

Miss Louise Conger is on her way to Silver City, Utah, where she will meet Mrs. L. J. Dobbins. They will return by motor shortly by way of Idaho and Oregon. During Miss Conger's absence humane calls should be sent to Mrs. C. H. Yates.

Library Grows as City Grows

The income of Carmel Library is derived chiefly from subscriptions, charges, fines, gifts, sales of various kinds and an occasional entertainment.

Its disbursements are largely what may be regarded as fixed charges and for the past year averaged slightly more than one hundred dollars per month. The chief items are: Librarian's services, $587.50; books and magazines purchased, $413.51. Office expense, insurance, taxes, lights and various unavoidable incidentals bring the total up to $1206.19. The entire care of the building is included in the surprisingly small sum of $57.36. The insurance, amounting to $62.40, is for one policy; others mature at different dates, so that this may be counted among the fixed charges. In view of the services rendered, no library could be more inexpensively run. Such economy is due in part to the type of building with all the work centered in one room, though crowded and inconvenient; in part to the fact that the building is open only three hours a day; and in great part to the loyal and enthusiastic services of a staff that knows and thoroughly enjoys its business, and cares more about doing its work than in being paid for it.

The four trustees re-elected at the annual meeting, to serve two years, are Mrs. L. B. Dutton, Miss Emma Williams, Miss E. Harrington and Dr. D. T. McDougal.

The officers for the ensuing year are the same as for last year: President, Mrs. L. B. Dutton; vice-president, Mr. G. F. Beardsley; secretary, Miss E. Harrington; treasurer, Dr. H. W. Fenner.

High School Baildings Ready for Occupancy

The additions to the Monterey high school building are almost completed and present a fine appearance. The gymnasium and assembly hall is practically finished. The work on the science building is being rushed to completion. All additions may be ready for use when school opens on the 27th of this month.

Traffic Ordinance is Now in Effect

Carmel's traffic ordinance went into effect last Sunday. There is so much traffic in the city that it will be necessary to strictly enforce every provision of the new rules. On Ocean avenue black parking lines have been painted to guide motorists. A red card attached to your steering wheel means that you must appear at the city hall and tell it to the judge.

Beautiful Tract to Be Platted Soon

The importance and growth of Carmel-by-the-Sea and vicinity as one of the most desirable residence sections in all of California is again emphasized by the consummation of an epoch-making realty deal a few days ago.

The transaction referred to is that by which the Carmel Realty Company, represented by R. C. DeYoe, acquires a tract of land of approximately thirty acres in extent adjoining Carmel. The entire property was formerly held by the pioneer Carmel Development Company and was the last large holding in this section of that concern.

The property is picturesquely located. It adjoins Carmel-by-the-Sea and the county highway on the south; on the west is the Forest Hill addition; to the north is Carmel Woods, and the famous Hatton ranch is the easterly boundary. Truly a splendid section for homesites.

For years many a man with coin of the realm, and some without, have cast envious eyes on this bit of fairyland. Some of it is thickly wooded; some not so much so—permitting one to build amidst the trees; some of it open.

Mr. DeYoe has ambitious plans for the development and improvement of the property. Winding roads and streets following natural contours are now being built, and these roads and streets will be made to fit into and conform to existing streets in adjoining sections.

Water and electricity will be available for every homesite.

Not only is the land and location itself ideal, but an added and most desirable feature is the splendid view of sea and mountain available from every building site.

The growth of the Monterey peninsula for some time past, and now, and the eventual completion of the Carmel San Simeon highway and other evidences of present and future expansion, would make the purchase of property in the new section desirable, if not for a homsite, then as an investment.

Reading Circle

"Mr. Prohack" being finished the Reading Circle will next take up Dickens' "The Mystery of Edwin Drood;" but before beginning the latter a miscellaneous program will be given next Monday—"Personal Glimpses of Other Lands"—which should prove highly interesting, and to which everyone is cordially invited. Gray Gables, Lincoln and Seventh, at 8 p. m.

Tidy Up the Town

ALL next week, and especially next Saturday, when the Carmel Circus is to be held, the town will be crowded with visitors. The city trustees, who have provided for cleaning and clearing the city square and also Ocean avenue, are asking the cooperation of residents generally in clearing papers and other debris from yards, vacant lots and streets.

For our own health and comfort and self-respect let us have a clean town. Cleanliness is the elementary step in creating and maintaining civic pride.

School Opens in Two Weeks

Carmel's school, Sunset school, opens on Monday, August 27.

It is not long ago that two teachers were able to care for all the children; now four have almost too much to do. From an enrollment of about seventy, the attendance has increased to over one hundred and thirty in three or four years.

The Board of Trustees is greatly pleased that they have been able to obtain the services of a special teacher in music. Miss Blanche Tolmie is to undertake this work. Her thorough musical training united with her gift for understanding children should produce splendid results. During the past year a piano has been acquired, and it is hoped that the next great need in equipment, an assembly hall, where the whole school may meet as one body, may be met before long.

The teaching staff for the coming year is as follows:

Principal and teacher of the 7th and 8th grades—Miss Mary Powers.

5th and 6th grades—Miss Georgia Sally White of Berkeley.

3rd and 4th grades—Mrs. Florence Thornton.

Primary—Miss Mildred Samuelson of San Jose.

During the vacation the painting on the new building is being completed. As the structure was finished just in time for occupancy last fall, this work had to be postponed. Now with brown woodwork and buff walls, a charming school room has been achieved. The rooms in the main building are also repainted, and all the blackboards have been refinished.

The new playground has been enlarged so that it is now almost twice its former size. It is to be surfaced in disintegrated granite, and is to be well drained by ditches at the sides. Meanwhile the grounds have been cared for, new soil put into flower beds, fertilizer placed around trees and shrubs. In the few weeks that remain before the opening of school, Mr. Nixon, kind and stalwart janitor, will give the final polish so that everything will be in readiness for that Monday morning when he unfurls the new flag and rings the first bell.

Chamber Music Recital Postponed

Owing to the death of President Harding and the setting aside of yesterday as a national day of mourning the chamber music recital of Alexander Saslavsky and Alfredo DeVoto, whose former concert here was received with such delighted appreciation, has been postponed to tomorrow night at eight-thirty.

The recital will include sonatas by Brahms and Dvorak, violin solos by Mr. Saslavsky, and a group of piano numbers by Mr. DeVoto.

Tickets will be on sale at the Carmel Weavers today and at Arts and Crafts hall, the place of the concert, tomorrow evening.

Carmelite Sold "Star" to Warren G. Harding

It is interesting to know that the late President Harding made his debut in newspaperdom by buying from Preston W. Search, father of Frederick Preston Search, the musician, his interest in a small sheet of which Search was proprietor and editor, the Marion Star. It was then a very, very small publication, and was still smaller when Search bought it from an Italian chestnut peddler.

Artist Criticises Carmel Exhibit

The splendidly written article that appeared in the Carmel Pine Cone issue of July 28 on the Annual Art Exhibition was thoroughly enjoyed but there are so many meritorious pictures not mentioned one feels like taking up the list where the above article left off.

On entering the hall one's eye is caught by the brilliant hues scintilating from all sides of Mrs. Roberta Balfour Thudichum's still life, "Peppers and Pomegranates." Mrs. Thudichum was born into the kingdom of art, having had a talented father who excelled in drawing of men and animals. He was also a successful caricaturist. Mrs. Thudichum studied in the academic methods of Paris some years ago. In California she became a student of Beatrice Irwin of London in the science of color, developing a new and brilliant method entirely opposite to the former schools, emphasizing the vibration of color in juxtaposition and treating transparencies in a subtle union, not mixing nor exactly blending, nor yet quite transposing. The result is a luminousity and richness and juicy effect which increases with time. This gives a texture unattainable otherwise. Dealing with (primaries and secondaries, in this way she leaves the tertiaries for atmospheric effects in landscape where fogs are both sweeping and vibrant. This new treatment gives a boldness of stroke to the cypress and rocks which makes the simpler manners to her seem too smooth for rugged growth of thousands of years. One sees this in her "Maytime. Carmel Valley." While seeking to interpret the mystic in values of palpable interpretation at the same time the artist does not sway far from veracity in archaeological formation. Her work is literary not literal.

"On the Lagoon," by Miss Josephine Culbertson, shows a sympathy and love for all the exquisite tints of nature. Her landscapes and gardens, in fact all her work, shows the spirit of the artist that fascinates the beholder and makes one long to see more of her work.

Charlotte E. Morgan's "Mission" is carefully studied, low in tone.

Lillie M. Nicholson's boat and water in ripples are good in color.

J. V. Cannon's "California Hillside" is dreamy.

Evan Mosher, dainty in color.

"Portrait of an Old Woman," by Margaret Frame, a pupil of Paul Mays, shows talent and feeling; does her gifted teacher much credit.

"Point Lobos' Crags," Elizabeth Strong, showing jagged rocks. The picture would be improved if the composition had not so many parallel lines. The color is excellent and effect is good.

"Oregon Coast," Alfred Schroff. Water color well handled, good technique.

"Cypress," by Ferdinand Burgdorff, beautiful and subtle, feeling of old cypress against an evening sky.

Arthur Vachell's two oils show an accuracy of color.

F. Carl Smith's "Where Sand Meets Earth," and along "Carmel Coast," show knowledge of color and deep sympathy with his subject.

Julian Greenwell's "Carmel Valley" fills an important place; very good perspective, broadly handled and well designed.

C. S. Price, "Homeward;" in composition, in color and subject most attractive. The French would say "beaucoup de sentiment." The poor horses look tired out, as though they had lost interest in life and had but little to look forward to.

The artists of Carmel collectively show deep study into the mysteries of nature, and their studios that one has been fortunate enough to enter show marked taste, indefatigable industry, perseverance and talent.

The exhibition as a whole is a credit to Carmel, and there are many pictures that one would be glad to possess.

You'll find the cuisine a little different and a little better at the Mission Tea House. Adv.

More Students Take to Classics.

An increase in the study of the classics this year has been announced by New York university. There were 100 students of Latin a year ago, as compared with 128 this fall. The number of Greek students increased from 28 to 48. There has been an even more pronounced increase in the number of students of the romance languages, amounting to nearly 75 per cent in French, or from 434 in 1921 to 757 in 1922.

Need Knowledge of Timber.

Nowhere is there a greater need for knowledge of timber growing than in the eastern states, says the forest service, United States Department of Agriculture. In this section the relatively dense population, the enormous industrial demands for timber, and the large areas of lands best fitted for forests all unite to urge timber production on a large scale.

CARMEL WOODS

is the ninth addition to the constantly growing town of Carmel-by-the-Sea, the most celebrated center of art and letters on the Pacific Coast.

CARMEL WOODS is in the heart of the Monterey Peninsula, touching Carmel-by-the-Sea on one side and Pebble Beach on the other. Magnificent pines and oaks and luxuriant undergrowth make Carmel Woods a region of native loveliness, admirably adapted for the homes of those who love nature and find in the healthful climate, the romantic mission history and the cultured atmosphere of Carmel-by-the-Sea their ideal of a permanent dwelling place.

CARMEL WOODS is a residence subdivision, with reasonable restrictions recommended by the town trustees and town planning commission of Carmel-by-the-Sea. These restrictions are designed to assure every purchaser a congenial environment.

CARMEL WOODS is traversed by roads that wind through the pines and oaks, opening up vistas of irresistible charm, making the homesites accessible, and at the same time emphasizing the note of seclusion so dear to those who seek homes on the Monterey Peninsula. These roads are all forty feet wide and for twenty feet of their width they are surfaced and graveled.

Water in abundance and electricity have been brought to every homesite.

Individual lots can be purchased for as little as $350.00
Reasonable terms if desired.

Carmel Library Annual Report

Madam President, Board of Trustees and Members of Carmel Library Association:

Twelve regular and one special meeting of the Board have been held during the year.

The Eichrodt bequest of books finally reached the shelves shortly after the last annual meeting and passed into circulation, to the great satisfaction of the readers.

A new bookstack, affording space for about eight hundred volumes, has been installed and books to the number of eight hundred and thirty have been added by gift and purchase.

A sidewalk from Lincoln street to the library door was laid during the early summer and is greatly appreciated by pedestrians.

The new street sign on the corner of Lincoln street and Ocean avenue will hereafter direct whoever reads straight to Carmel Library.

Miss Prentiss again has the assistance of Miss Wickham during the busy season among the books. Special note should be taken of the physical condition of the room, due to Miss Tilton's excellent and devoted care. Miss Tilton is regarded by the Board as an important and valuable member of the [illegible]

The lecture on Hawaii, given September 8, by Mr. G. F. Beardsley, netted a nice sum for the treasury and was greatly enjoyed by those who were so fortunate as to find that date open among their other engagements. Another illustrated lecture by the same speaker is promised at no distant date.

More than five hundred new cardholders have been added to those already using the library and the total circulation for the year is 23,216.

The children continue to be numerous and appreciative visitors who use to the full their own special nook and overflow into the other departments. This is as it should be, for Carmel Library is an intimate, homelike place, with a warm welcome for all and able to respond to a great variety of needs.

Affairs have run very smoothly and the association may anticipate another equally satisfactory year of constantly increasing usefulness.

Respectfully submitted,
EMELINE HARRINGTON,
Secretary.

It Should be a Shrine

Florida, a little Missouri town of 500, wants to have a Mark Twain park. Florida is the birthplace of Samuel L. Clemens and is now fired with the great ambition to make his father's ramshackle cabin, recently rescued from the wreckers, the center of a national reserve.

The cabin is just a stone's throw from the Salt River dam which Mark Twain made immortal. All around are the scenes which impressed themselves on his boyhood mind and were afterward described, sometimes magnified or distorted, in his stories. Florida residents hope to preserve these old scenes. The little city's ambition will be commended. Our country is not very old, but in recent years its penchant for preserving historic places has become pronounced. Mark Twain is one of the world's most beloved figures. He needs no memorial for in Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer his personality will be engraved forever on boyhood's heart. That his home town should undertake to show its pride in its son is fitting. None will grudge the little Missouri village its park.—Dearborn Independent.

The claim of Messrs. Alfred Dunhall of London that they possess Sir Walter Raleigh's pipe is disputed, according to an item in "The Westminster Gazette."

The sketch shows a pipe owned by Dr. R. T. Spencer of Gorse Hill, Fishponds, Bristol. It is very similar to the one in London.

In sending the photograph, Spencer writes:

"The pipe, to my recollection, was always referred to by my father as Sir Walter Raleigh's pipe, and I learned from him that it was presented, early in the last century, by a (then) retired general to my grandfather when the latter was a young man. My grandfather was born in 1806. That will account for the pipe being in our family for a century.

"The face at the base of the bowl is of the generally accepted 'Red Indian' type, with traces of red paint (the only artificial coloring on the pipe) still clear."

Painting of Famous Churchman

A handsome lifesize portrait of Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, D. D., has just been completed by Miller Ury, famous artist of New York, who crossed the continent to fulfill the important commission. The painting has been hung in the Archbishop's residence in San Francisco and has brought out favorable comment from critics.

The Archbishop is shown sitting in his study in the robes and ermine of his high office. The whole body is well executed, but the facial expression is notably true to life, and has brought forth much praise.

The painter has done portrait work for many world-famous people, including three popes—the present Pontiff, Pius XI, and his two predecessors, Benedict XV and Pius X; ex-President Wilson, former Kaiser William of Germany, Louis F. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad, and President Smith of the New York Central Railroad.

Ury was educated in Rome, is now 45 years old, but, despite his comparative youth, has a deep niche in art annals.

Last Home of Dickens for Sale

Gadshill Place, the home of Charles Dickens during the last fourteen years of his life, is to be offered for sale at auction.

It is said that the summit of Gadshill, the spot where Falstaff and his merrymen took toll of travelers and then ran away, appealed so strongly to Dickens when a boy that it became his ambition to possess the house that stands on it. He did settle there in 1858, and wrote soon afterward:

"I am on my little Kentish freehold, looking on as pretty a view as you will find in a long day's English ride. My little place is a grave red brick house, and Cobham woods behind, the Medway, with Rochester and its old castle and cathedral, on one side."

The auctioneer's description is somewhat different:

"One and a quarter miles from Higham station, about two and one-half miles from the city of Rochester and about twenty-six miles from London, the Georgian residence contains four reception rooms, conservatory, ten bedrooms, bathroom and good offices, company's gas and water, central heating, stabling for five horses and garage."

The old English gardens, known as "The Wilderness," a favorite haunt of Dickens, are included in the sale, which takes place on July 26, in Hanover square.

While Dickens lived at Gadshill Place he wrote "Great Expectations," "Our Mutual Friend," "The Uncommercial Traveler" and "Edwin Drood."

The Sudbury, Mass., hostelry, made famous by Longfellow as "Ye Wayside Inn" and operated as such continuously since 1656, has been acquired by Henry Ford. He is said to have paid $50,000 for the quaint house and the beautiful grounds, and $200,000 for the relics and antiques contained in the hostelry.

The art exhibit criticism printed on Page 2 of this issue was written by Mrs. F. Carl Smith of Pasadena.

POINTER RETRIEVED THE HAT

Seemingly a Case Where Dog, in Classic Phrase, "Seen His Duty and Done It."

A good-looking pointer dog was trotting timidly along Ohio street in front of the Federal building. He plainly was uneasy and was making his way in a sort of bewilderment through the crowd near Pennsylvania street.

A woman's black sailor hat came rolling along in the high wind. It careened among scurrying feet, but none stopped it. Thirty yards or more behind in laughing chase was a young colored woman.

The dog saw the hat and although not near it ran in chase. He galloped along beside it, striking at it occasionally as if trying to let it know it should stop. He seemed not to wish to touch it for fear of doing it damage. Finally he became exasperated and caught it in his mouth. Holding one foot on it he looked around to see what should be done.

The colored girl got her hat all right, the pointer yielding it with a proud strut. He got a pat on the head and a kind word that made him jump for joy.

The colored woman went on her way, and the dog half-pistfully began his search for a way out of the crowd. —Indianapolis News.

GOT THE MESSAGE TWISTED

Persistence of Telegraph Operator Made a Mixup of a Somewhat Amusing Character.

An inspector of railway property whose duties had taken him to Bridgeport, Conn., discovered that the foundation under the local freighthouse needed repairs. Without delay he filed this dispatch to the New York office:

"Foundation under freighthouse at Bridgeport unsafe—rush men at once."

In sending the message the operator on the New York wire apparently did not space the letters properly in the word "foundation" and also pressed too long to form the letter "t"; for this was the message received in New York:

"Found a lion under freighthouse at Bridgeport unsafe—rush men at once."

The inspector was astonished a few hours later to see a special work train come into the yard with a flat car containing a large animal cage and also ten men expecting to have an exciting time catching a lion that they supposed had escaped from some passing circus.—Youth's Companion.

Championship Golf and Polo at Del Monte

Del Monte's midsummer golf tournament, scheduled August 24, 25, 26, is attracting an unusually large entry list, including many of the star performers who will be seen in the state championship tournament on September 22 to 30.

Interest in polo will center upon the appearance of Tommy Hitchcock, the Meadowbrook, L. I., star, this week-end. A large attendance of Peninsula and Santa Barbara enthusiasts will watch the famous Tommy pilot the Del Monte team.

The final game, Sunday afternoon, should be one of the best exhibitions of polo ever seen on the coast, according to Hugh Drury, who is arranging the matches.

Mrs. Viola Rice, chief deputy in the county tax collector's office, is enjoying a brief vacation here.

An evening spent at the Mission Tea House will be an evening spent pleasantly. Dancing. Adv.

ONLY THE FITTEST SURVIVE

Former President Wilson in the current issue of the Atlantic Monthly says in so many words that capitalists ought to take stock of their services to humanity as capitalists and endeavor to find out whether or not they are a paying proposition for society.

This is sound advice. Leaders there must always me, in industrial and financial affairs as well as in religious and literary affairs. But leaders have to be careful to keep on leading, else they become trailers as did the feudal lords, who were at first leaders and then became trailers. Modern public opinion admits to the heaven of approval capitalists who perform a service, but it is harder for a camel to get through the eye of a needle than for the other kind of capitalist to reach that place of reward.

HARDING'S TRIBUTE TO HAMILTON

President Harding, making the principal address and acceptance on behalf of the United States of the statue of Alexander Hamilton on the South Plaza of the Treasury building, Washington, said in part:

"It is a most becoming thing to erect, and to me a very gratifying thing to participate in unveiling, this memorial to one of the outstanding founders of the republic. In the appraisal of constructive contribution to the making of our America, Alexander Hamilton stands foremost and merits our reverent tribute for all succeeding time.

"Hamilton was the inspiring and insistent advocate of union and the creative genius in the making of the Constitution. More, he was the practical politician, who brought about its necessary adoption.

"To pay him this tribute of outstanding eminence means no disparagement, in any way, of the other stalwarts among the founding fathers. Washington riveted the confidence of the new possessors of independence; Jefferson was the foremost advocate of democracy; Franklin was the philosopher in the making of the Constitution; but Hamilton had the conception of a Federal government, upon which plan the American people have builded to their own satisfaction and to no small degree of world astonishment. When his plan was adopted he became the master builder, and the integrity of the nation's financial honor is his monument for the ages."
